The Government Fully Expects to Enter Upon the Trial Some Time Next Month.

The case of the United States against Messrs. THE COMMITTEE ON RULES.

What Mr. Burrows Says of the Order Adopted This Morning. The House committee on rules this morning authorized, by a party vote, the report to the House of what is termed by Messrs. Reed and Burrows, the minority of the committee, the most drastic measure ever proposed to any legislative body. They say it far surpasses anything ever They say it far surpasses anything ever thought of even in the Fifty-first Congress. It provides that upon the adoption of the order, the Speaker shall proceed to call the committees for reports, and until that order is exhausted, no motion whatever shall be in order or entertained by the Speaker.

Commodore Ramsay said today the board will report in a day or two the forty-eight hour sea trial, and the reason that she had not had it as soon as was expected was the wish of the department to give Capt. Brownson a chance to shake her engines down and get her in proper trim for the ordeal.

While Navy Department officials express ignorance of any such intention, it is likely that the Detroit will be made ready for a long stay in Brazilian waters. Secretar

LONDON, Sept. 20 .- A dispatch received today by a mercantile firm in this city states that Admiral Mello, commanding the while in the one returned against the four rebel Brazilian fleet, has sent an ultimatum men today he is referred to and designated to the authorities in Rio Janeiro declaring that unless the city surrenders at once he will renew the bombardment relentlessly When the four accused parties were ar- and with all the strength at his command. The dispatch adds that the receipt of the ultimatum has caused a panic in the city. Nobody doubts that Admiral Mello will carry out his threat if the city is not delivered into his hands. Merchants and others are hastily gathering together their valuables and making preparations for flight into the interior of the country. The insurgent warships at Santos landed a strong force of marines today. The fighting in the neighborhood of the city con-

Gone to Help the Rebels. GIBRALTAR, Sept.20.-The Brazilian battleship Riachuelo sailed hence on Monday last, presumably for Rio Janeiro, to join the rebel fleet under command of Admiral Mello, as the officers and crew are said to have declared in favor of the revolutionists. Should the report prove correct the Riachuelo will prove a valuable acquisition to Admiral Mello's forces. She is a vessel of 5,700 tons and 7,300 horse power. She is protected by a belt of steel faced armor having a maximum thickness of eleven inches. Besides her auxiliary armament she carries four twenty-ton breech-loading guns in two turrets, that are protected by ten inches of armor.

velopments were awaited with interest The proceedings, however, began without incident, and there was some disappointment on the part of spectators. This grew out of a lack of knowledge on the part of the public as to the method of procedure. The suggestion made by Mr. Voorhees yesterday that he hoped to get the support of a majority of the Senate to prolong the essions of the Senate did not imply any fight this morning over a motion for longer sessions for the reason that no motion to that purpose is necessary. The only thing necessary to prolong the sessions is to hold a quorum and to vote down motions to adjourn. Therefore, there was nothing at the beginning of the day's work to indicate that the fight for a vote was on. Mr. George began his speech at an early hour in the day, and things were as they have been for many days past, as far as outward appear ances were to be taken for it. The Object of the Repeal Men. The fight is on, however, and it is expected that this week will develop whether or not the Voorhees bill can ever be passed without an amendment. It is expected by the repeal men that they will be able to secure a longer session than usual today. but they do not start out with the pur-pose of having a continuous session. The idea is to sit until 6 or 7 o'clock today, or perhaps a little longer, and then tomorrow to have a still longer session, and the next day longer, and finally to run into a con-

If the bill can be passed it is expected that this will be demonstrated by Saturday, and if no progress toward a vote is made by that time it is said that it will be regarded as evident that nothing can be done except through compromise, and the expectation is that in that event there will be either a compromise adopted or the be either a compromise adopted or the whole matter will be sidetracked.

Eighteen Will Filibuster. According to the count of the repeal men the silver men have about eighteen Senators who will filibuster as long as necessary to defeat unconditional repeal. Operating under the time-honored practices of the Senate this is a very strong force for of the Senate this is a very strong force for a filibuster. A number of the repeal men feel that there is a very slim chance of getting a vote by lengthening the sessions, but to make the effort is the only way to test it. If it is shown beyond question that a vote on unconditional repeal cannot be had some of the repeal men will be willing to try a compromise, but the most determined among them say that they will not talk compromise until they have made the effort to get a vote without it and have failed. It looks today as if they might expect to find themselves in about the same situation at the close of the session on Saturday they are in today.
